Disaggregation of A/C Loads from Smart Meter Data

* Smart meter data holds information on how home energy consumption changes in response to external conditions.
* Pulling out information on individual loads through disaggregation techniques will yield better models of how neighborhoods use energy, which makes it possible to evaluate alternative energy technology in reducing peak load.